Officials of the Concilia- tion Board Visit Here

On Monday, May 1st, Rev. Dr. Gordon, J. D. McNiven and Colin Macleod, accompanied by W. Graham of the local union made an inspection of the International Coal and Coke Co's mines, and returned on the passenger train to Lethbridge ready for the session there on Tuesday.

On Saturday the Michel local union passed a resolution unanimously requesting open sessions of the conciliation board. Up to the present the proceedings are still held in camera. But it is expected after the preliminary proceedings are concluded that the further meetings will be public. The decision lays with the chairman, Rev. Dr. Gordon and it seems from reports that he is favorable to making them public.

Marriages

At Coleman on Tuesday last, F. W. Cardno of the H. G. Goodeve Co. Ltd. was united in marriage to Miss Lena Ellery of Coleman. Mr. Cardno is well known here, being secretary of the Coleman hockey club, and also had an interest in the H. G. Goodeve Co., hardware merchants. The Minister joins with his friends in wishing him all prosperity and happiness. The happy couple left for the East on Wednesday evening. Rev. T. M. Murray performed the ceremony.

On Tuesday J. J. North was also united to Miss Mary Lamm, both of Coleman. The Rev. T. M. Murray officiated.

St. Albans' Church

There will be service in St. Albans' Church on Sunday evening next at 7 o'clock P. M. The Rev. A. B. N. Crowther, M. A. of Michel B. C. will officiate.

Coleman Tennis Club

Owing to the temporary absence of E. C. A. Crawford, Secy. - Treas. of the Club, R. T. Parker of the International Club Office has kindly consented to act as Secy. - Treas. All those desirous of joining the Tennis Club for the season of 1911 are requested to leave their fees with him.

Mental Mystic Co. Coming

Marvellous "Mental" and his company of high class entertainers, will appear in the Coleman Opera House on Saturday 6th and Monday 8th. Mental has been drawing record houses wherever he has appeared, and both press and public are loud in their praises of the performance put on by this talented combination of eight first class artists.

The Coleman Miner from now to Jan. 1st, 1912, 75c.

MEETING of TOWN COUNCIL

Road to West Coleman may be Arranged for this Week. Council Inspect Cemetery.

The regular meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening last in the council chamber. Present: Mayor Cameron, Councillors McDonald, Holmes, Morrison, Clark and Shone.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. A deputation from the Board of Trade, Messrs. W. L. Quimette and G. W. Benson, who called the attention of the council to the fact that the city's band had become disorganized, owing to lack of management. The musical instruments being the property of the town, and the band being a valuable asset, the board of trade thought something ought to be done in getting the band started as soon as possible.

Clark-Shone—That a committee comprising two members of the council, and two from the board of trade be appointed, carried. Councillors Clark and Holmes were appointed on behalf of the council, and together with the board of trade representatives will endeavor to fix matters.

McDonald - Holmes - That councillors Clark and Morrison act as secretaries in the selecting of the law and statute books for the use of the council.

Clark-McDonald - That the appointment of a fire chief be left in the hands of the fire committee with power to act.

A telegram was received from W. Uren, of Cranbrook, in reply to a letter forwarded by the council, re road to West Coleman. Mr. Uren stated that he would be in town in a few days, accompanied by a solicitor and would then arrange matters. This matter had been held up owing to legal difficulties.

The chairman of the board of works, Councillor Holmes reported that the grading of 4th St. was progressing satisfactory.

A communication was received from J. Anderson, asking that his license money be refunded, as he had quit the livery business.

Clark-Morrison—That J. Anderson application be filed, carried.

A communication was also received from B. Oyust with regard to dairy license.

Morrison - Clark - That communication of B. Oyust be filed, carried.

The application of Mrs. Griseck for the refund of license, was allowed.

Morrison - Clark - That the license of Mrs. Griseck be refunded, carried.

A communication from the Coleman Tennis Club stating that they wished to add another court, they also put in a plan showing the position of the court. Councillor Clark moved that application be granted as requested, but it was decided to refer the matter to the Board of Works, with power to act.

Morrison-Holmes - That right of way as shown on the exhibit of blue prints of the International Co., from 1st St. to Government road for $350 be accepted, carried.

Several accounts were referred to finance committee and if found correct to be paid.

The following report was read by Councillor Clark, chairman of the License and Police Committee:

The following amounts were collected during the month of April.

Poll Tax	$45 00
Dog "	23 00
Fines	22 75
Licenses	200 00
Total	$290 75

The town has been very quiet throughout the month, there being only three cases of drunks which were disposed of and the amount of $23.75 in fines has been collected.

McDonald-Morrison—That report be adopted, carried.

Councillor Holmes, chairman of the Board of Works, suggested that the council appropriate a piece of land east of the town and that application be made for a lease of the same, to be used for a nuisance ground.

Morrison-Clark—That tenders be asked for the removal of refuse of the town and destroying of same.

The attention of the council was called to the fact that some person or persons had been cutting trees near the approach to the park. It was decided to place notices up and if the offenders were apprehended they would be prosecuted with the utmost rigor of the law.

Councillor McDonald called attention of the council to the cemetery and it was decided to visit that place on Wednesday afternoon, to see what could be done to improve the approach, and also to fence it.

It was proposed by Councillor Clark, that the Mayor be empowered to call a public meeting, on Wednesday next, May 10th, at 8 p.m. in the Council Chamber, for the purpose of making arrangements to celebrate the Coronation of His Majesty King George V., and that dogders be published for the same.

A Fatal Accident

G. DeMarco, Italian, about 20 years, was instantly killed, on Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, at the lime kilns, at Crow's Nest. Blasting was going on, and although the deceased was 500 yards from the blasting, a piece of rock struck him in the head, making a hole large enough to put a man's fist in. The inquest was held Monday and a verdict of accidental death was returned, no blame being attached to the company.

The deceased had the sum of $97.00 in his possession at the time of the accident.

The following composed the jury:—W. J. Hanson, E. Venables, G. Johnson, Constables Grant DuVal and J. Milne. E. Disney, coroner.

TWO CASES FIXED IN A POEM.

Farmer Larkin's Chickens—A Discon-
solated Wife Cheered Up by Verse.
One Victim Turns on the Poet.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

WHEN I got down to Farmer Larkin's with my mail cart the other morning I saw a red flag fluttering from the kitchen window. That is the wireless signal along my route that I am wanted in the house to compose a poem, and it must be respected at all hazards. As I landed in the house I sneaked north and saw the farmer's wife flying around. After three or four minutes she was ready to explain to me:

"Abe, grandpa has come down with the chickenpox."

"You can't mean it?"

"But the doctor says so."

"Must be second childhood."

"It's worse than that. The widow Larkin has come down with the measles."

"But what has that to do with grandpa's chickenpox?"

And then amid smiles and tears she told me the story and demanded that I write a poem out of it for the moral effect on the world at large. When it was finished it was carried into the bedroom and read to grandpa, and he went and promised never to do so again. It ran as follows and can be sung in grand opera or at a barn dance.

Cure For Chickenpox and Measles.

Oh, winter snow, your falling cease!

Oh, breeze, stop blowing!

I have a tale of woe to tell.

'Twould from my pen be flowing.

A widower is Jacob Swan.

A widow is Mrs. Larkin.

Each one is sixty years and ten—

You old, you may, for a spin!

But Grandpa came a-spelling round,

And tried to get his wings.

And in the night they did forget

Their former griefs and sorrows.

They were engaged in a beautiful festival dance they were dancing.

And romance they were talking of

Except when they were sneezing.

They had it planned for in a hope

From their day, and their children.

To wed and hand in hand to go

And take up where they were.

The day it came, but cruel fate

Was on their track to beat them.

No sympathy was in her heart

As she sat on to them.

She went to bed the next day

And went to bed the next day.

And with a case of chickenpox

Four Grandpa's eyes were closed.

Their love was in a twinkling

Their romance was in a twinkling.

They're not alone, they're not alone

For Grandpa's eyes were closed.

Cheer For a Disconsolate Wife.

Six months ago Farmer Taylor's daughter Mary was married to young

Farmer Joe White, and he wrote

these little poems on the eve that would bring him back to the farm.

When Joseph White kicked the cow, me many congratulations and a dozen mince pies. The other day I heard that there was something wrong because the loving couple, but did not get the particulars. On this trip, when

I made Taylor's, the old man called me

in. There sat Mary with disconsolate face and tears in her eyes. I had a cramp in my forehead from the cold,

but after hearing her sad story I thud-

ed it out and wrote:

"Oh, you so little as Bonnie May,

A-weeping over the sea.

Her heart so full of happiness,

Her song so full of glee!

She was in love with Joseph White,

And she he did adore.

She vowed her love to him to death,

And then he'd love her more.

She was his sun, his life, his all.

He swore to be her slave.

She vowed to him she'd never die

And she he'd love her more.

She was in love with Joseph White,

And she he did adore.

She vowed her love to him to death,

And then he'd love her more.

She was his sun, his life, his all.

He swore to be her slave.

She vowed to him she'd never die

And she he'd love her more.

She was in love with Joseph White,

And she he did adore.

She vowed her love to him to death,

And then he'd love her more.

The Evil of Cleanliness

Sir Almoth Wright, M.D., has been telling the people of London that washing takes away from the skin the power to resist the attack of microbes. So is the natural instinct of the animal to keep its skin clean, the traditions which the soap-makers spread if they did not create. To dredge a washing is to secure protection against disease as well as to ensure the comfort of the hour.

WATERY BLOOD IN THE SPRING

How To Get New Health and New Strength at This Season

Even the most robust find the winter months trying to their health. Containment indoors, often in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms in the house, the effects, the abrupt change of seasons, the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery or clogged with impurities. Some people have headaches and a feeling of languor; others are low spirited and nervous; still others have pimples and skin eruptions; while some get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when they went to bed. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order, and that a medicine is needed. Many people rush to purgative medicines in the spring. This is a mistake. You cannot cure these troubles with a medicine that gallops through your system and leaves nothing behind. What you need to give you health and strength in the spring is a tonic medicine that will enrich the blood and soothe the tangled nerves, and the one always reliable tonic and blood-builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually banish spring weakness and ill health against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anemias, nervous, debility, indigestion, rheumatism and other diseases due to bad blood. BAD STATE BARGAINS.

When Saving $1 a Week Cost Britain £250 a Year.

Over twenty years ago a tried and trusted servant in the employment of the Hampton Court Palace authorities became entitled to a pension. In the ordinary way this would have been about £100 a year, but his employers suggested that instead of taking a pension he should manage the famous Hampton Court Maze, and trust to the receipts for his income, the authorities guaranteeing to maintain the Maze and keep it clear, free of cost to the manager.

After some hesitation the employee agreed, and the result more than astonished him.

During the first year his receipts were over £600, the second brought in nearly £900, and during every year of the twenty he occupied as manager of the Maze his income averaged £850. When it is pointed out that all this money came to him in pennies—the charge for admission to the Maze—it will seem incredible.

The state has made many bad bargains in the past, owing to a want of knowledge and foresight on the part of the officials. Thus the great chain of stations in the public parks of London was dealt with in a very peculiar manner.

An ex-royal servant, in the person of a mild-mannered lady, was given the right to let 2,000 chairs in Hyde Park and the Green Park in lieu of a small pension. For many years the old lady coined money, though the exact amount of her income was never made known.

In the early old days the generosity of the Government bordered on corruption, not to mention bribery. The great chain of stations in the public parks of London was dealt with in a very peculiar manner. An ex-royal servant, in the person of a mild-mannered lady, was given the right to let 2,000 chairs in Hyde Park and the Green Park in lieu of a small pension. For many years the old lady coined money, though the exact amount of her income was never made known.

Nowadays, His Majesty's Stationery Department sells its old paper and keeps the profits, which have in recent years amounted to over £100,000.

Then there was the great army second-hand clothes scandal. Friends of persons in high places were given the army's cast-off clothes for a mere song, and many fortunes were made. There was no "such a thing" as public tendering. When the much-needed reforms came along, John Bull was able to pocket £25,000 a year, and the corruptionists were sacked.

Old battleships, too, used to be disposed of at ridiculous prices to favored persons; although it is maintained to this day that England makes very bad bargains with its customers in this respect.

For example, last year Germany sold for over £200,000 the obsolete battleships, while Great Britain disposed of an equal number of ships, of better quality, for £20,000.

But this bad bargain was partly due to the fact that we insist upon our battleships being sold to our old enemies, whereas we sell our old men-of-war to any nation, practically without restriction, so long as its money is good.—Punch and they made me feel like my own self. I've cheerfully recommended the Pills to all who are weak or ailing."

The Stomach Needs Help

The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels Must Be Kept Active to Ensure Health

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Not one person in a hundred can get along at this time of year without the help of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Too much eating of heavy artificial foods, too little outdoor exercise, this is the explanation.

The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become clogged and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangements follow.

There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This medicine gets the bowels in action at once and by awakening the liver and kidneys ensures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory system.

With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its beautiful cooperation, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression.

You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment for biliousness, constipation, backache and kidney disease than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 2 or 3 times a day, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Better Man Than His Father.

The late Dean Hook of Chichester, was greatly beloved by his flock, and indeed by all classes; his cheery, genial manner made him welcome everywhere. There was a quaint old blacksmith living in the outskirts of Chichester who was a great friend of the dean. The old man's only fault was his attachment to the alehouse, and for this the dean had frequently rebuked him.

Fasting one day, he dean looked into the smithy, and saw the blacksmith talking, as it appeared, very seriously to his son. The dean called out, "What's the matter, son? Do you what you cannot do with yours?"

The old man advanced to the door and replied, "What am I going to do with him? I tell you, son, I am going to do with him what you cannot do with yours."

"Oh, indeed?" said the dean. "And pray what is that?"

"Why, I am going to make a better man of him than his father."

Cabby's Bedding.

A story by Lord Decies: "I said to a cabby the other day:—

"How much to take me to the Hotel X?"

"Four dollars," the man answered.

"Oh," said I, "I didn't ask the price of the pig. I don't want to buy it."

"Well, I should think not," said the cabby. The horse alone cost $4.50."

Our Duty To Be Useful

Duty, in the ears of some, is a hard word to those who realize that it sheds its rewards in proportion to the devotion given, it offers no such suggestion. It means something more than drudgery or work grudgingly performed. It was Amiel who said: "Our duty is to be useful, not according to our desires, but according to our powers."

People find duty exacting because they attempt to accomplish too much. They fail to understand that duty does not mean doing big things in a short space of time. It does not mean accomplishing a definite thing in the space of a few years with the consequent working beyond one's power of endurance. It means doing the thing of today in the most capable manner. It means doing them cheerfully. It means trying to content one's self with only the best work or best thought of which one is capable. It means taking so much pride in one's work that it will be as perfect as possible. It means always being ready to perform one's task with a light heart and a happy countenance.

No man or woman can do any of these things unless he or she is engaged in a useful pursuit. One may selfishly be working for one's own gratification or to accomplish something for one's own benefit, but it must be a useful thing to bring satisfaction.

We may deceive ourselves for years, but realization must some day come. There must be an awakening which will show us how puny have been our efforts and their results compared with what they might have been.

Sometimes we may feel that we should be performing great deeds for the benefit of humanity. It may be that we think of the heathen who need conversion and feel that we should give ourselves to the work. We may believe that we should be doing great things in a professional or business way. When we realize that we are not we make ourselves miserable over the thought of neglected duties and opportunities.

What we do not see is that our work is right at home. Our work for humanity is the labor of love we must bring to helping those who are in the slough of misery in our own community. There are people at our doors who need the gospel of decent living and personal rectitude. It is our work to help them secure it. There are men and women who need our moral support in their work. It is our duty to give it. There are men and women who need our encouragement. It is our duty to give it. There are little children who need protection and defending against the ignorance and the cruelty that surrounds their lives. Ours the duty to help give it.

Ours the duty to make others happy and contented wherever they may touch our lives. Ours the privilege to carry sunshine into as many dark places as possible. Ours the duty to find life rich and beautiful because we are doing some useful work. And in doing this work we shall never be taxed beyond our strength. As we grow older we shall find the burden growing lighter because our reward will come in the knowledge that we have found duty a labor of love.

Procrastination

The wisdom of prompt action was lately demonstrated in rather a pathetic way. Two sisters had listened to an address directing attention to the Canadian Government Annuities system as an opportunity for safe investment to people of small means, and with the result that both resolved to take advantage of it immediately. Each had the sum of $2,000 invested in the stock of a certain Bank. The younger sister, aged 65, did not delay, but at once sold her stock and made the purchase, and is now in receipt of an income of over $50 quarterly, the first instalment of which was paid to her three months after the purchase had been made. This gives her for life an income equal to 10 per cent on the amount invested. The older sister intended to follow her example, but unfortunately, on the advice of Mr. Kuowall, put off doing so until it was too late. The Bank failed and her savings of a life time were swept away as in the twinkling of an eye. But not only was her $2,000 lost, but she became indebted to the Bank under the double liability clause in the sum of $2,000. Had she invested the amount as did her sister in the purchase of an Annuity she would have had an income no matter how long she lived of $225 a year.

Further information may be obtained on application to your Postmaster, or to the Superintendent of Government Annuities, Ottawa, to whom all letters go free of postage.

Explosive Socks

That various citizens throughout the country may be the unsuspecting wearers of gun cotton neckties and explosive socks liable to blow up at any moment, is the startling possibility just brought to light in Montreal. Nor is the feminine sex immune from the danger since petticoats may likewise be articles of destruction. This unsuspected condition of affairs has been discovered through a local protest recently filed against the manufacture of artificial silk from cellulose, in which it appears that there is a possibility that almost any article of wearing apparel made to imitate real silk may actually be explosive. There are several processes it appears according to the protest by which artificial silk is produced from cellulose. One process employs nitro-cellulose which is really nothing more than soluble gun cotton. From it the threads to be used in manufacture are drawn in ether or alcohol. After the thread has been drawn and is ready for wearing it is supposed to be denitrated. If it is, it is entirely safe. If it is not, it may be exceedingly dangerous, for it then remains nothing less than gun cotton spun into a fabric. So in the future it may be worth while to refrain from stamping the "near silk" clad foot or yanking viciously at the cravat of the same material, even though no casualties from explosive garments have yet been reported.

The entire trade of Australia is supplied from the factory at Sydney, which is the largest, outside of the home factory here. The company, consequently, enjoys a larger business in Australia than in any of the other foreign countries and the per capita business there exceeds the per capita business done by the company in the United States. The factory at Sydney is as large as many of the medium sized factories in Des Moines, despite the fact that it is merely a branch factory and supplies only one country.

The branch factory at Wellington, New Zealand, supplies the trade of that territory.

Canadian trade is supplied from the branch factory in Toronto, Canada. None of the Canadian field is supplied from the home factory here, although some portions of it are within easier reach of Des Moines than Toronto. The growth of the business in Canada has been consistent and rapid and the Canadian factory is required every year to meet an increase in business. Des Moines Capital

The Man With A Millstone About His Neck

The millstone is lack of special training. It holds one man down to hard work and small wages while others, properly trained, go ahead. But every man and woman who is laboring under such a burden can easily rise to a better position and increased earnings and can find out how for the asking.

To find out how, simply write the I. C. S., stating the position you wish to gain. In return, an institution with 17 years of successful experience in training thousands of others for advancement will tell you how it can fit YOU for a better-paying position. No risk to run. No books to buy. Isn't such a chance for advancement worth such a little to you?

GEO. C. EGG,

Fernie, B. C.

ARE of the RENTED HOUSE

"WHY do you suppose St. Paul, like almost all persons, to say that Paul dwelt for two years 'in his own hired house' in Rome?" asked one Bible student of another. "Why emphasize his own?"

"Probably because Paul, being a conscientious man, looked upon the property as if it were indeed his by right of purchase, and took the same interest in it as he would have taken in his own home," was the answer. And, with a touch of asperity begotten by personal grievances: "I must have been a model tenant. I wish I had a few like him!"

Another householder who draws much of his income from the rental of real estate once showed me, as a curiosity, a letter just received from a woman tenant.

"We have now occupied this house for ten years," she wrote, "and I can truly say that we have tried to live in it as we try to live in the world—so that it will be the better, not the worse, for that living. In all that time we have not asked for one dollar for repairs. The house is clean, and well built. But in certain respects it is a little behind the times, and we are asking you to take certain improvements we suggest into consideration."

She then went on to specify what she wished to have done in the matter of plumbing, painting, etc., leaving the sketched improvements to the landlord's discretion. She complained of "nothing and demanded nothing."

"Now," said the landlord, impressively, striking his finger upon the open page, "every word that you say is true. They have taken care of the premises as if they owned them. The house has lost the look of a rented dwelling. All is clean, tight and tidy. I am writing to say that she shall have all she suggests—and more! The only condition I name is that she shall select her own papers and colors and superintend the improvements as she would were the property here in law."

He had the reputation of being a hard man in business dealings, and even avoiding in business after his own interest. When I told the story to some of his acquaintances, they would not credit it.

Yet it is literally true. The tenant felt that she dwelt in her "own house," and cared for it accordingly. I may add that, although the repairs—of which I should say, "alterations," since a rented house well cared for by the tenants never falls into disrepair—ran well beyond the thousand-dollar limit of the contractor for the work, no increase of rent was so much as hinted at by the "hard" landlord. It knew a good thing when he saw it, and was wise enough to appreciate it.

From many years' experience as house owner and as a tenant of other people's

"Every word that woman says is true."

houses, I incline strongly to the belief that the popular prejudice against landlords as a grasping and unreasonable tribe is so nearly groundless that no sensible man or woman should hold it. The fact is patent that it is to the interest of him who owns property to keep it in order. A ramshackle tenement depreciates in public estimation as surely as a ragged coat wins contempt. The man who lets houses must keep up appearances if he would keep up prices. And it is as true that he who disregards the reasonable requests of tenants

"Teach them to care for the home because it is theirs."

"Your premises are yours—minus the taxes."

for repairs becomes so notorious as to lose his chance of letting houses. I hold, furthermore, that in the main, the good tenant makes the good landlord. The "dearest place on earth is HOME!"

Without altogether sympathizing with the citizen of the world who left on record the declaration that for him any place was home where he could shoot the bolt upon his door, shutting himself in from intrusion, we do well to hold fast to our hearts the blessed truth that even a hired flat of four rooms may have all the charm and comfort of a real home to one who uses it aright. The rented house is, as truly yours, while you pay your rent, as if the title deed to the same were safely locked up in your lawyer's safe. It is to all intents and purposes yours and, if you will, may be made home in very deed.

It is too much the custom to depreciate the fast-growing fashion of living in "apartments" as destructive of the home spirit and the love of home which we would cultivate in our children and maintain within our own hearts as a freestate of the peace and everlasting joy of the heavenly mansions in preparation for the Father's chosen. We hear many stult cast upon "flat arabs." Whereas, if the truth were told, the arab's tent is as dear to him as the ancestral estate—founded when Norman William took possession of England—can ever be to the descendant in a straight line of a Norman baron. Ancestral acres are all very well when one can possess them and dwell thereupon. I could tell you of the tenants of suburban cottages and city flats who, when "home" means as much of comfort and continual peace as to him who prides himself upon owning—a I heard one say—"the land he stands upon, clear down to the center of the globe."

The sooner we enter into the full meaning of these homely truths, the closer our contentment with what we choose to forget are temporary abiding places.

As soon as we are fairly settled in the place, be it cottage, three-story brick or four-story brownstone front, or apartment or humble "cave," take up your mind that it is home, and set about making the blessed word a living reality. The walls against which you hang your pictures are yours. See to it that they are kept clean and fresh. Let no strips of torn paper or spotted paint give them the air of a "rented house." If a pane of glass be cracked, if a door-knob is loose, if a shelf sags or a faucet leaks, rectify the mischief as you would were the premises your property. Build a sagacious old man, who had been poor and then was poor, of his wealthy neighbor's grounds:

"They are as much mine as his; I enjoy the sights and the smells and the wind in his trees as heartily as he can, and I don't have to pay the taxes."

Your premises are yours, with all the attendant privileges—minus the taxes! Therefore, make the best of it. Get rid of the "rented look" speedily, and keep it aloof.

I have in mind a beloved home of six rooms "and a bath," in the fifth story of a city apartment house that may serve as a type of what I have been trying to describe. Somebody with more figures than I have, asked the mistress of the cozy nest one day in my hearing, "why she lived on the fifth floor?"

The response was instant and apparently serious but the blue eyes held a merry spark:

"Get rid of it is no sixth floor, you see!"

Nor is there an elevator. Yet in this serene-as-a-clever hand can make it—has lived for fifteen years one of the happiest families it has ever been my privilege to know. Father, mother and three bright little boys live in unity, love and diligence, with never a rebellious murmur against the flat that has degraded them to live so pleasantly. They are of gentle blood and breeding, and these facts make it easier for them to tolerate the inconveniences of the flat. "We might have rented a larger apartment, and paid six a month more for 'an elevator,' remarked the mistress of the cozy nest, "but I would never have begun to think of the propriety of changing our quarters. The girls really need more room." Yet, the thought makes us homesick. This has been home for so long!"

"We repainted the kitchen shelves and floor."

My eyes wandered around the rooms with care. Individually we stamped upon every appointment. A divan heaped with embroidered cushions filled a recess; bookshelves furnished another; upon one side of the hall fine photographs were disposed judiciously here and there, a slatternly bearing a few choice bits of here-and-there van around the dining room; through a door which stood ajar I had a glimpse of a pretty work table and a basket heaped with bright-colored wools. While we chatted one of the daughters related laughingly how she had "done over" the kitchen in the autumn, finding that the landlord thought it "would do for another year."

"The janitor is a handy fellow and willing. We had the floor scraped and shellacked and repainted the kitchen shelves and the workwood of the sink. I have taken a whole four years' course in painting, you know, and understand mixing colors and all that. I was tempted to fresco the walls—at least to the extent of putting on frieze around the top—but mamma dissuaded me. Then, too, the dresser is so high it would have interfered with the general effect."

On my way home I paid a "duty call" at a mansion standing among others as grand in a fashionable quarter, city blocks away from the fifth-story flat. The rooms were vast and superbly furnished; the hostess was refined and cordial; wealth had combined with taste to surround her with all her heart could desire. And yet—the maidservant, public, controllable atmosphere of house pervaded and glorified the rented flat and was wanting from the mansion.

From the beginning of my occupancy of the "hired house" put far from you the idea, uppermost in vulgar minds of rebellion against keeping "another man's property in house." "Make believe very hard," as did Dickens' Marchioness with orange peel and water she would have taste like nectar, and consider the domicile your own. And why not? You buy it for a year, instead of "in perpetuity."

From my own limited experience and wide observation, I tender a morsel of information that may be of use in cases of accidental situations of ill-luminating gas. The first and main thing to do is to get the stopper out of the gas pipe, giving him the freest possible access to the open air. Then, if the gas is not too thick, loosen the clothing and induce artificial respiration. If the gas is too thick, take the lungs for them to work naturally.

As to the antidotes here brought forward, I submit the case to wise authorities.

THE HOUSEHOLDERS' EXCHANGE

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters that contributors to this exchange have to write in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space than we can afford to give, we want all our correspondents to be as concise as possible, and if by any means in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters. Attention is called to the fact that the Editor cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

Should Have Been Roasted

I HAD a fine young hen, which I cut up, put into cold water and boiled slowly two hours. After serving for dinner, instead of being soft and juicy, as I had expected, it was as dry as a stick.

When the reason of this was asked, I said I asked you should have stewed a tender young fowl! Pull-grown fowls of uncertain age are frequently used. They are boiled slowly for hours. You murdered the young chicken, speaking after the manner of cooks, by boiling all the sweetness out of it. What you did was to make the fowl in which it was cooked. That held the juices for the fowl, and the fowl in the meat itself. That you roasted (cooked) the fowl, and boiled it in the water, you would have had satisfaction instead of chicken.

The best French chicken I make is cooked in an inner boiler without water. A layer of chopped fat is spread upon the bottom of the "casserole," the chicken comes next, then corn and parsley, with a sprinkling of pepper. Another situation is to cook the chicken in water, and let the fat melt over the chicken, and all the ingredients are used in this case. The chicken is washed and laid into the pot, and the fat is melted over it. A closer fit is fitted upon the vessel containing it, and the water is poured over the fat. The water in the outer vessel should not come to a boil, but should be kept at a gentle boil, remembering from the boiling kettle should the water sink below the level of the contents of the inner boiler, for three hours at least. The tender fowl will yield to this treatment. The flavor of the frittata is far better than when cooked in the usual way, retaining all the juices of the fowl and of the pork.

We cook frittatas in the "frittata" after bringing to a boil and keeping this up for fifteen minutes. The top of the vessel containing the frittata is not lifted before depositing it in the cooker.

Reading Matter Wanted

I read in a late issue that a member of the exchange had literature for sale. I am living in my daughter and not able to get out or to do much of anything, being troubled with heart disease and rheumatism. I should be glad to have something to read—the Ladies' World, if I could not, already disposed of. If I could have nothing to read, I can not tell how much I should like to have something to read. I am not a reader, but I am a reader of the Ladies' World, and I am a reader of the Ladies' World.

Pudding Sauce

Butter the size of an egg, 8 cups of hot water, is equal of brown meat, 1-2 teaspoonful of vinegar, a little salt and pepper. Cook well together and stir in enough sugar to sweeten. A little cold water to thicken to your taste. Take from the fire and serve with pudding.

Oatmeal Cookies

Two cups each of rolled oats and of brown sugar, 1/2 cup of milk and any shortening, 1/2 teaspoonful of soda and any flavoring. Mix in a rather stiff dough and roll into balls. Bake in a hot oven. If you have a signature of the person offering assistance, I take this method of directing her attention to you. If she has already given the reading matter away, I think that some other member of our great family will note your appeal and send to me for your address. Thank you for the recipes.

German Recipes

I have been looking for a long time for a recipe for German cookies. I have found one in the German Cookbook. It is a very good one. I have written to her for all means to have the rest of the German recipes published. When these recipes are published, I will send them to you. small pieces. Return to the stock; add a can of sliced peas, a can of French peas, a can of green peas, a can of chickpeas, and a can of lentils. Cook for three hours. Then add a little water and cook for three hours more. Then add a little water and cook for three hours more.

Beefsteak à la Mode

Soak a thick cut of beef in butter until nearly browned, cover with boiling water, and cook for three hours. Then add a little water and cook for three hours more. Then add a little water and cook for three hours more.

Springerles (A German Recipe)

Beat 1 pound of granulated sugar with 1 egg for ten minutes. Leave for an hour, then add 1 teaspoonful of lemon extract and the same of hartshorn. Work in enough flour (about 2 pounds) to make it stiff enough to roll out. Powder the forms with flour before using to prevent sticking. Cut apart and leave on a smooth surface until the top of the time before putting in the oven. Bake in a quick oven and watch closely to keep them from burning. Yet I had it direct from a German housewife, who said it was a very good one.

I have never tried making dried fruits, but I make nice sweet pickles and breaded peaches from the canned varieties. Breaded peaches are a pleasant accompaniment to tapades and rice puddings. Household Hints

From my own limited experience and wide observation, I tender a morsel of information that may be of use in cases of accidental situations of ill-luminating gas. The first and main thing to do is to get the stopper out of the gas pipe, giving him the freest possible access to the open air. Then, if the gas is not too thick, loosen the clothing and induce artificial respiration. If the gas is too thick, take the lungs for them to work naturally.

Buy at Home.

(Extract from an Address given by Tom Richardson on Women and Homes at Lethbridge,

A pleasing town to live in is always the town that is pointed out as a prosperous one. Buying at home is one of the sure and practicable way of making a town prosperous. In the matter of buying away from home in the large department stores of the East, the women are without doubt the worst sinners. The men, as a rule are more honest about it than the ladies. And, getting down to the root of the question, it is nothing more nor less than a question of honesty. Your fathers or husbands come from the east, and get Western prices for their labor. Is it fair, then, to send back East for what you buy with the money earned in a Western community, thus robbing that community of one of the very means that enables it to pay those better wages? If you continue to do this thing you are a nest of traitors. Are you going to help your merchants, or are you not? If, by buying in your own community, you help to build up their business, you may be sure that they will do their best to fill your every want.

One of the reasons that the merchants have to charge high prices is that while you are sending East and paying cash prices for the goods you get there, you are very likely asking the merchants of your town to extend you credit for what you buy from them. Ask yourselves, is this fair? Is it honest?

Lord Stratheona is planning a silver medal to each of the 4500 members of the Imperial Choir singers before the King and Queen at the Crystal Palace, London, England, on May 12, when their majesties open the Festival of the Empire.

Constipation bring many ailments in its train and is the primary cause of much sickness. Keep your bowels regular and you will escape many of the ailments to which women are subject. Constipation is a very simple thing, but like many simple things, it may lead to serious consequences. Nature often needs a little assistance and when Chamberlain's Tablets are given at the first indication, much distress and suffering may be avoided. Sold by all dealers.

Is there anything in all this world that is of more importance to you than good digestion? Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested and converted into blood. When the digestion fails the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. Sold by all dealers.
